DEFENDS THE BOOKIES

Counsel Says There's No Law Against Odd-laying.

CASE WILL GO TO JURY TO-DAY

Assistant District Attorney Explains Methods of Bookmakers at Benning Race Track, but Defense Tries to Show There Was No Violation of Statute in Taking Money.

William Davis, of New York, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Justice Stafford in the Criminal Court yesterday on the charge of violating the gambling laws of the District by making a book at Benning race track on April 11.

The case will go to a jury comprising two grocers, a carpenter, a cigar agent, a clothing merchant, a street railway stock clerk, a confectioner, a post-office clerk, and another clerk. Just how much they know about the making of books does not appear in the court records.

District Attorney Baker will present the arguments of the prosecution this morning. The defendant's counsel had their innings yesterday. Attorney A. S. Worthington asked the court to instruct that the jury dismiss the case, alleging that the district attorney practically had demanded the creation of a new law to cover this specific charge.

"No Violation of Law."
He insisted that there had been no violation of the existing statute last spring, and referred to the opinion of Justice Bradley, of the District Supreme Court, given at that time. He had said that gambling within the District was an evil for which Congress was responsible, that body having seen fit not to take any action on the various bills introduced last February for the purpose of regulating bookmaking. He thought that opinion should be taken as a precedent in this case, and argued that there was nothing in the action of Davis contrary to the spirit of the law.

Ralph Given, assistant United States district attorney, who was sent to gather evidence at the Benning track, was the government's star witness. He told how on April 11 he and two assistants had placed five or six bets, consistently losing most of them. He explained that Mr. Davis had courteously turned over to him five plain, high-legged stools, sheets, memorandum tablet, a tin cashbox, and other paraphernalia used by the sporting fraternity on such occasions.

Admits He's Not an Expert.
Mr. Given explained the manner in which bookmakers conduct their business, how they mark sheets, receive and keep the money placed with them. His testimony was lucid and succinct and Mr. Worthington asked whether he was an expert on horse racing. Mr. Given blushed and stammered he wasn't.

District Attorney Baker endeavored to establish through Mr. Given the fact that every bookmaker doing business at the track was a permanent fixture, while the season lasted, that layers of odds occupied a certain place and that they conducted their business there where patrons could always find them. In support of this contention, Mr. Given testified that every bookmaker had his number and occupied practically the same position every day.

On cross-examination by Mr. Worthington, Mr. Given admitted that stools of the same make were used in the lunch room, on the grandstand and everywhere.

Solomon Lichtenstein, of New York, testified that he was a member of the Metropolitan Turf Association, of New York; that this society had a clubhouse and a full set of officers. He denied being a bookmaker, but styled himself a layer of odds.

The Old Game Slightly Changed.
Being closely pressed by Mr. Baker, Mr. Lichtenstein admitted that the terms were practically synonymous, and that the difference between the old system of receiving and placing bets and the custom at Benning to-day was of little consequence.

But he asserted with great emphasis that no bookmaker was obliged to take a certain position at the track; that they could do business all over the place; that the business did not involve the stools, the sheets, the tin cash box, or the memorandum tablet, but only himself, Solomon Lichtenstein.

Attorney Worthington told the jury that though Davis was on trial, this was, in fact, a test case; that it was brought by the government with the acquiescence of the Washington Jockey Club, for the purpose of obtaining a decision as to whether or not betting, as carried on at the track, was a violation of the law.

He said that if the question of law be decided adversely to the contention of the defense, he expected to show from the facts that Mr. Davis had merely exercised the privilege of an individual, that of making bets with other individuals beyond the mile limit.

S. S. Howland, president of the Washington Jockey Club, was an interested auditor, and the audience there were many followers of the track.

NEW SCHOOL IN SOUTHEAST.
District Government Purchases Site Surrounded by Alleys.

By a deal, just completed, the District government has secured a school site at the corner of Fourth and M streets southeast. The heirs of the estate of Thomas E. Young sold the lot that has a frontage of 155 feet in M street and 135 in Fourth street, and contains 20,872 square feet. The lot is bounded by alleys on the inside, and is regarded as an ideal site, having all the advantages of a separate square.

It is proposed to relieve the crowded condition of the McCormick School in Third street, between M and N southeast. The price was $1,350.

D. C. Stutler, of the law firm of Ambrose & Stutler, has purchased a house and lot in Saul's subdivision, at the corner of Fourteenth and Delobco avenue. Knott is building for Swartzell, Rheem & Honey, eight semi-detached houses in Petworth, in Varnum avenue.

SUES RECREANT HUSBAND.
Mrs. Dora Smith Seeks Separation from Man She Says Deserted Her.

Charging her husband, Amer C. Smith, with a multiplicity of deeds incompatible with her idea of a devoted husband, Mrs. Dora Smith yesterday began suit for absolute divorce.

Mrs. Smith says they were married at Alexandria, May 1, 1902. She names a divorced woman as co-respondent, for whom, she says, her husband left her penniless some time ago, compelling her to earn a living for herself and children.

Real Estate Company Asks Charter.
Papers for the incorporation of the Louis H. Stabler Company were filed yesterday; the object of the enterprise being to conduct a real estate business. A capital stock of $5,000 is named, and as trustees appear the names of Thomas E. Jarratt, Louis H. Stabler, and William F. Guide.

TO IMPROVE HOMES OF POOR.

District Committee Will Endeavor to Eliminate Alley Slums.

Efforts will be made this winter by the special committee appointed to improve the housing conditions of the poor people of the District. The campaign starts where it left off last spring, except that the law passed by Congress for the condemnation of insanitary dwellings will be enforced with vigor in the hope of finally eliminating the alley slums.

An important point also has been gained through the co-operation between the committee and the District departments, in remedying abuses made known through the reports of the field workers.

A special circular has been issued calling attention to a number of circumstances which tend to increase insanitary conditions, and making suggestions how best to alleviate these conditions. Some of these were stated as follows:

"Two hundred and eighty-six inhabited alleys house 19,076 of Washington's population.

"Damp floors and walls and plenty of sickness must be expected where the first story of the house is partially or entirely below the street level.

"Fifth and disease are encouraged in a tenement which provides only one facet on the top floor.

"Over-crowding is evident in a tenement where forty families occupy fifty-five square feet.

"Light, ventilation, and play space are at a premium when a tenement on an interior lot measures 40 by 208 feet."

WEST WOULD GIVE RELIEF

Wants More Time to Look Into Judge Kimball's Complaint.

Calls at Police Court to Discuss the Proposition to Let Corporation Counsel Nolle Pros. Cases.

Commissioner West yesterday spent an hour at the Police Court in conference with Judge I. G. Kimball regarding the nolle prosequi of certain cases, which, under an order of the Commissioners, are brought before the judge to determine.

In answer to a recent letter from Judge Kimball, Commissioner Macfarland recommended that no amendment be made in the Commissioner's order of 1904 requiring the corporation counsel and his assistants to present for trial all cases in which, upon an examination of evidence submitted by the District, they are satisfied a prima facie case had been made out.

Commissioner West has requested further time in which to examine into conditions before final action is taken by the board. The Commissioner yesterday said to Judge Kimball that if there are any complaints of annoyance and delay to citizens brought before the court for violations of regulations or other minor offenses, he would co-operate with the court in remedying conditions as soon as possible.

Mr. West stated also that there had been some complaints reading annoyance occasioned to citizens who admitted the charge of violating the District regulations, and who preferred to leave collateral, adopting this manner of paying the penalty rather than to remain in the courthouse for three or four hours. This matter, he said, would receive further consideration.

"My visit to Judge Kimball," said Commissioner West, "was simply to talk matters over to see if we can improve conditions. Personal investigation and heart-to-heart talks will often accomplish more than reams of letter-writing."

Judge Kimball would make no statement in regard to his interview with the Commissioner.

TRACTION CO. FORFEITS $1,000.
Says East Washington Heights Line Broke Contract.

According to an opinion of Corporation Counsel E. H. Thomas, the East Washington Heights Traction Company will be compelled to forfeit the $1,000 deposited with the District to guarantee construction within a prescribed time.

Capt. Jay J. Morrow, to whom the matter was referred, recommended: "It is believed that the company is unable to fulfill by the company to the District in spite of the fact that prior to the legal termination of the charter that portion of the line lying on the Pennsylvania avenue bridge was completed. The line over the much larger portion of the road was not completed nor were cars running over any portion prior to June 18, 1902. Neither the act of July 1, 1902, which extended the time to June 18, 1903, nor the act of April 26, 1904, which extended the time to October 26, 1905, took into consideration the fact that the charter already had expired."

WANTS PROPERTY SOLD.
Mrs. Graff Asks that Husband's Will Be Carried Out.

Sophia Graff began suit yesterday against John J. Graff, Karl Graff, Caroline Howard, Katherine Teeper, Louisa Oshahan, William Berger, and Antonio Graff, to compel them to sell the saloon business and real estate property left to the complainant under the will of her husband, to be held in trust for her minor son, John Graff.

John Graff, the complainant's husband, died January 8, 1902, leaving property valued at $13,000. The will provided that John J. Graff should conduct the saloon business until Karl Graff, his son, should become of age, at which time the real estate and saloon should be sold, and the proceeds distributed as required by law.

It is alleged in the declaration that John J. Graff has conducted the business for his own use and profit, that Karl Graff is now of age, and that Mrs. Graff is desirous of carrying out the provisions of the will.

BASHFUL COUPLE SLIP AWAY.
Mr. and Mrs. Corson Now at Home with Bride's Parents.

Too bashful to endure the jests of their friends in this city, Mr. Warren M. Corson, of Boston, and Miss Edith H. Mackley, of Sixteenth street northwest, went to Baltimore and were married there at noon last Sunday.

Mr. Corson, who is employed at the Southern Railway office, is twenty-eight years old, while his bride is twenty-one, and was formerly employed as stenographer by Dr. Sablin, of this city.

Upon learning of the wedding, the parents of the two young people met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mackley, where the supper was served to the bride and groom when they returned. Mr. and Mrs. Corson will be at home at the residence of the bride's parents for the next few weeks.

STREET CARS DELAYED.
Connecticut Avenue Service Halted for Half an Hour.

Traffic along P street was seriously impeded last night about 10 o'clock by the burning out of one of the electric feeders located at Fourteenth and G streets, on the east-bound Connecticut avenue line.

The tie-up lasted twenty-five minutes, when the trouble was finally adjusted and the line resumed running without further interruption.

DAIRY CRUSADE IS ON

Campaign Begun Against Insanitary Farms.

WILL REGULATE MILK SUPPLY

Many Dealers Charged with Unscrupulously Doctoring Output with Deadly Preservatives—Local Health Department to Co-operate and Insist Upon High Average.

Edward H. Webster, of the Dairy Division of the Department of Agriculture, has started an active campaign against the insanitary dairies in Washington. He will also investigate the market milk to obtain a uniform system for grading the forms, co-operating with the local health department.

The object is to improve the quality without increasing the cost of production. An official of the Department of Agriculture said yesterday that numerous complaints have been made by the local health department of milk dealers who have unscrupulously doctoring their supplies with preservatives.

Artificial Means Unnecessary.
"Milk and cream produced under sanitary conditions, and without the use of any chemical, will last for several weeks if kept clean and cold," he said. "This was practically demonstrated at the National Dairy Show held in Chicago in February."

"Some samples of milk produced under these conditions, and without any artificial preservative, remained perfectly sweet after being shipped a thousand miles, put in storage at a temperature of about 32 degrees F. for two weeks, and then re-shipped a distance of more than 50 miles to this city, where they were stored in an ordinary ice box for several weeks.

"Some of the samples were still sweet after five weeks. A part of a box of cream entered in this exhibition was placed in cold storage in Chicago at a temperature of 35 degrees F., and remained sweet and palatable for seven weeks."

Uniformity Sadly Needed.
"There is too wide a variation in the quality of the milk supplied in this city. These variations occur not only in the milk supplied by different dealers, but in that from the same dealer."

"Many of the fatalities among babies in the large cities are directly due to the chemicals in milk. Hundreds die from starvation every year, because of the poor quality of the product."

RULE ON FIRE SHUTTERS.

Counsel Asked Whether Regulations Apply to Apartment Houses.

In accordance with a request of Attorney Bates Warren, the matter of the installation of fireproof shutters on flat buildings and apartment houses has been forwarded to the corporation counsel for an opinion.

It is provided in section 165 of the building regulations that all stores, steel, or skeleton construction buildings, except churches and private residences, now or hereafter erected in this city, in conformity to other structures, shall, when ordered by the building inspector, be provided at all openings with iron or other fireproof shutters or fireproof glass, and fireproof safes and frames.

The question to be decided by the corporation counsel is whether the words "private residences" includes flat buildings and apartment houses.

MAY NOT LET WOODWARD PAY.

Commissioners Fear It Would Be Illegal for Him to Pay Expenses.

Although Health Officer W. C. Woodward is willing, he may not be permitted to defray a portion of his expenses as a delegate to the meeting of the Public Health Association in Mexico, and the Commissioners will again discuss the question. At former meetings the District has paid the entire bill, but in view of the large amount involved, this year, Commissioner Macfarland suggested that he assist.

Dr. Woodward agreed, and Auditor Garrison reported that it expedient for the District to pay it all as any other plan probably would be considered a contravention of the spirit, if not the letter of the statute prohibiting the acceptance of voluntary services by the Commissioners. The matter has again been referred to Commissioner Macfarland.

Macfarland Goes to Canada.

Commissioner Macfarland left Washington yesterday for Ottawa, Canada, where he will to-night deliver an address under the auspices of the Canadian Club on the history and government of Washington. A movement is on foot among the representative business men of the city to convert Ottawa into a federal district, and to secure an arrangement with the Dominion government similar to that which the District has with the United States. Mr. Macfarland will describe the District's system, its causes, and its practical operations.

Test Speed of Street Cars.

The speed of street cars in various parts of the city was tested yesterday by Commissioners West, Biddle, and Gen. George H. Harries, president of the Washington Railway and Electric Company. The party riding in an automobile to which a speedometer was attached. It was understood the railroad wishes to modify the speed of the cars in certain sections of the city, and it was for the purpose of making observations in regard to the proposed change the test was made.

New Roadway for Aqueduct Bridge.

The Commissioners yesterday ordered the laying of a new roadway on the Aqueduct Bridge at an estimated cost of $5,000. New sidewalks have also been ordered for the bridge at Connecticut avenue and Klingle road, at a cost of $500, and for the Connecticut avenue bridge, at a cost of $500. A new sidewalk will be laid on the new P street bridge.

HELD FOR SHOOTING WOMEN.

Charles S. Fletcher and Benjamin E. Proctor Are Indicted.

The grand jury yesterday reported indictments against Charles S. Fletcher, who is alleged to have shot his wife on July 8, inflicting three gunshot wounds in her head, from the effects of which she died. Benjamin E. Proctor is indicted on the charge of assault with a dangerous weapon. It is alleged that Proctor stabbed Rebecca Campher on August 20 last. The woman, it is stated, walked to the Homeopathic Hospital after the assault had been committed, dying three weeks afterward.
